

Public Relations and Graphic Design

Project Title	Public Relations and Graphic Design
Project Summary	Use your writing, editing, and design talents to help improve the health outcomes of 2.2 million American Indians and Alaska Natives.
Country	United States
Country/Region of Focus	United States

Project Description

The Indian Health Service public affairs team is looking for creative, talented individuals with a passion for public relations. Our goal is to engage and inform stakeholders such as patients, tribal leaders, national organizations, news media, members of Congress, and the general public.

You may be responsible for writing and/or editing content for posts on the IHS blog: <https://www.ihs.gov/newsroom/ihs-blog/>. Familiarity with the Associated Press Stylebook is a big plus.

You may also be tasked with developing or redesigning IHS fact sheets: <https://www.ihs.gov/newsroom/factsheets/>. Talent with graphic design and infographics would be welcome.

You may also use digital images, video, and electronically-produced graphics to create original social media content for Facebook, YouTube, Flickr, Twitter, etc.

For more information on eInterns at IHS, please see: <https://www.ihs.gov/newsroom/ihs-blog/december2017/virtual-internship-program-brings-students-across-the-country-to-ihs/>

Required Skills or Interests

Skill(s)

Editing and proofreading

Graphic design

Infographic design

Marketing

Social media management

Speech writing

Storytelling/blogging/vlogging

Writing

Additional Information

The Indian Health Service is an agency within the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services responsible for providing federal health services to 2.2 million American Indians and Alaska Natives. The headquarters public affairs team develops speeches, fact sheets, presentation scripts, bios, news releases, blog posts, and web content.

Language Requirements

None